Hollywood Warts TM AllBy: Alan Royle This is a collection of tell-all stories about Hollywood and its most famous stars, scandals, fights, love affairs and sexy (not so secret) secrets. I am a HUGE fan of Hollywood. The intrigue, the mystery, the scandals especially those that occurred in the first 100 years or so. Charlie Chaplin, Joan Crawford, Errol Flynn, these people fascinate me! I knew I TMd enjoy this book and I did! However, as much as I did enjoy the information I did not enjoy the formatting, the errors and the (honestly) sloppy writing. Just for examples: 1. Actor Richard Long is famous for playing Jarrod Barkley in the TV series Big Valley. The author called him, "Richard Long of Bonanza fame." 2. In the following two paragraphs, the author assumes that I, the reader, already know all the same things he does. This is a common theme throughout the whole book. Ernie Kovacs was hilarious as the cigar-chomping conman in this western comedy. Two years after its completion he was killed in a car accident. Police attending the scene surmised he had been reaching for a lighter to ignite his cigar, and took his eyes off the road momentarily. TM is the French word for nasturtium, her favorite flower. Rumors have abounded for decades that the French beauty was a transsexual, but they have never been confirmed. I know that Capucine was a French actress who made 36 films between 1948 and 1990. I did not know it before reading these paragraphs. As far as I could tell, the author was giving a lesson in French, right in the middle of the story about Kovacs. I was left thinking, who's favorite flower was the nasturtium.
